REFLECTIONS . . . IN HONORS

Never again in life will awards and honors bring the same thrill as they did in high school - or the glow of pride and gratitude be so warm. Leading the procession were the student favorites, elected by their classmates to the 1960 "Who's Who in SHS."

Following in their wake came those seniors named to the Hall of Fame. The competition, the suspense, the victory, and the dazzling smile - all are reflections of these honors.

LINDA DILWORTH

HALL OF FAME

Considering ever criterion we set up for the all-around girl, LINDA DILWORTH emerges as a dream come true . . . intelligent . . . capable . . . talented . . . attractive . . . friendly.

Linda was chosen a cheerleader four years ago, an honor she held each year of high school, serving this season as head cheerleader. Her faithfulness to the Tigers earned her the honor of Homecoming Queen this year.

Linda's dependability as well as her popularity with other students has been demonstrated this year in the various activities with which she is connected. She has served as President of the Y-Teens, member of the Tiger Talk and Flashlight staff, and Vice President of the Beta Club.

It was the blue-eyed senior's beauty and charm that won her the title, "Most Beautiful," this year.

In Linda the Hall Of Fame has welcomed a faithful worker and a charming person.

MARGARET ROSE REAVES

HALL OF FAME

Sweet, friendly, and likeable, MARGARET ROSE REAVES has always been a "whirlwind" of activity. Because of her musical talent, she is always in demand for performances and services of one kind or another.

This brunette proved early in her high school years that she was a powerful leader. Anywhere - anytime - if there were work to be done, advice to be given, or fun to be had, "Miss SHS" would be a part of it. In recognition of these fine traits, she was elected President of the Student Council as well as Beta Club President.

To Shelby High School, Margaret Rose gave her very best, winning the highest honor - Hall of Fame.

ELEANOR RILEY

HALL OF FAME

Active, resourceful, intelligent is ELEANOR RILEY. This strawberry blonde has played basketball for three years, giving the sport her best and encouraging the team when the outcome seemed dark.

Her fairness and sportsmanship as well as her athletic ability earned her the title "Most Athletic Girl" this year. Her long and untiring efforts on the Flashlight brought her the position of business manager two straight years.

Because of her bright smile and amusing giggle that pops into conversation even when the joke is on herself, Eleanor has won a place in the hearts of her schoolmates in Shelby.

In Eleanor, the Hall of Fame has received an honor student, a hard worker, and a wonderful individual.

JACK GAZELLE

HALL OF FAME

Witty, versatile, rhythmical - combined these reflect JACK GAZELLE, a well-liked boy whose musical ability is tops with young and old alike. And the fact that he has been named "Most Versatile Boy" attests to his talents.

Journalist as well as musician, "Mr. Shelby High School" holds the all-important position of Tiger Talk editor, with four years' experience behind him as staff member. His talent in this field has also been utilized on the school paper.

An honor student, Jack has been a member of the Beta Club for the past three years.

We shall always remember Jack for his outstanding record and the gracious way in which he has accepted tasks and honors.
