The Iuka Chieftains ran up against the best high school team in these parts in the Nettleton Tigers. The Tigers have won 9 games thus far without a loss and have averaged 42 points a game just a little under a point a minute.

RETIRED FROM U.S. MARINES

Master Sergeant Charles O. Pitts, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pitts of near Tishomingo, has served for more than 36 years of active service in the Marine Corps. Sgt. Pitts was recently retired from the service.

In November of 1946, Sergeant Pitts reverted from Warrant Officer to Master Sergeant.

Among the ribbons worn by Pitts is the Good Conduct Medal, with 9 stars in lieu of consecutive awards, the Presidential Unit Citation with two stars, World War I and World War II Victory

Medal, American Defense Service Medal, American Campaign Medal, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with two stars, the National Defense Service Medal and the Navy Occupation Service Medal.

The Marine veteran is also a member of Masonic Lodge No. 335, Ocean View, Virginia; Scottish Rite, Alexandria, Virginia; Acca Temple, Richmond, Virginia; Shrine Club, Fredericksburg, Virginia; and the Calvin A. Lloyd Chapter, O.E.S., Quantico, Virginia.

BOSTICKS PURCHASE METAL STORAGE BINS THROUGH ASC, USING AN FSF LOAN

Mrs. Mary Bostick, Misses Bernice and Lillian, have recently had two 1,000 bushel capacity steel bins erected on their farm located 5 miles south of Iuka on R-1. The bins were purchased through the ASC program, using a farm storage facility loan. The Bosticks will use these to store soybeans and later receive a Commodity Credit Corporation loan on the beans at $2.06 per bushel which is the loan price. All farmers in Tishomingo County are eligible for this type of service under the ASC program. Further information can be obtained from the county ASC office.

W. J. Brinkley, Iuka, has a 2,400 bushel capacity bin and a 1,000 bushel capacity bin of this type on his farm for storing corn. Morrel Hatcher, Burnsville, and E. F. Fancher, Belmont, R-1, have one 1,000 bushel capacity bin each. These at present are being used for the storing of ear corn.

The 1,000 bushel capacity bins, including aeration, cost $529.00 each. Mrs. Bostick through the ASC program paid only 20 per cent of the cost plus freight and installation costs. The remaining amount was furnished by the Farm Storage Facility Loan program to be paid in four installments (1 payment a year) at a low rate of 4 per cent interest which makes it easy for a farmer to buy and install one of these bins on his farm.

"If we could get more farmers in Tishomingo County to purchase these bins and store corn and soybeans when the price is low in the fall and hold these commodities until the following spring when prices advance, farmers could realize more cash money in growing these crops," stated E. N. Allen, office manager of ASC.

VIDETTE VARIETIES

By Gene Holtsford

Fire season is here! . . . A thick blanket of fallen leaves will soon cover the floor of the forests. Fields are rapidly changing from green to brown. Fanned by dry autumn winds, this great accumulation of dead vegetation will become a vast tinder box, ready to burst into flames at any moment . . . Cooperation between landowners, plus an assortment of simple fire fighting tools on every farm, could mean the difference between fire blackened ruin and healthy, income-producing forests . . . All farms have tools which can be used in fighting woods fires. Other tools can be purchased for little expense or made from discarded materials. The primary hand tools are rakes, axes, bush hooks, flaps, shovels and portable water tanks. One of the most effective weapons for fighting fire is an ordinary farm tractor fitted with a heavy disc harrow. Adequate fire breaks can be easily plowed with this equipment. All tools should be kept in good repair and stored in an accessible place . . . Neighbors should cooperate with one another in controlling woods fires. Properly organized, a few landowners become an effective fire control unit. A general meeting, to adopt a plan of action, is the first step in organizing fire protection in a community. Advice and assistance to local fire control groups are offered by state forestry representatives, and county agents . . . Too often small fires become costly merely because of inaction or delay in the early stages. One of the first things a landowner should do when fire occurs is to call one of the many trained suppression agencies standing by for just such an emergency . . . Listed below are the names, telephone numbers and addresses of the fire control agencies protecting this county. Know the name and number of these groups. If you can't remember, clip this information from the paper and paste it in a conspicuous place near your telephone. Call these numbers if you see a woods fire: Collins M. Akin, Iuka 6182; Glen Tower, Corinth 3259; Woodall Mountain Tower, Iuka 5231; Dennis Tower, Belmont 3802; Clifton Rhodes, Iuka 3121; Hiwassee Land Co., Iuka 6186; and J. L. Hopkins, Belmont 3804.

If you like a good picture show then we suggest you see "The Ten Commandments" that will be showing at the Belmont Theatre for a whole week including Sunday, beginning on Friday of this week. This picture very accurately tells the story of Moses and the Israelites; of their bondage in Egypt and their journey in search of the Promised Land. The scene of the hordes crossing the Red Sea is a fete of photography that will hold you spellbound . . . The trials and tribulations, the problems and passions of a nation of people in slavery is forcefully told in color by a cast of players that are the pick of Hollywood . . . If you like stories of the Bible and Biblical history then you will want to see this religious film that is strongly endorsed by Cardinals and Bishops, ministers, rabbis and priests of every major denomination in the world.

THIS WEEK—IN WASHINGTON WITH CLINTON DAVIDSON

Farm Prosperity

The official “farm story” now being distributed from Washington could convince many city people and Congress that all farmers are rolling in unprecedented prosperity and wealth.

That would be a serious mistake. There is danger that some of the more recent favorable farm news will be so over-emphasized as to obscure the still serious difficulties which farmers face.

The farm news, generally, is indisputably good. Good weather and careful planning have enabled farmers to produce bumper crops this year. The total is a new record high, 10 per cent above any previous year.

The average of prices, received by farmers has been rising faster than farm costs for almost two years. Beef cattle and hog prices have been especially favorable to mixed blessing; that the result is an increase in our already burdensome surplus. There is every indication that farm surpluses will continue to be a serious national problem.

While per capita farm income is up, total farm income is 25 percent below 1952--$12 billion compared with $16 billion. The difference is explained by the fact that there are fewer farmers.

Purchasing Power Down

Although income measured in dollars is up, because of inflation farmers can buy less with 1958 income than they could with much smaller income in 1940. It is what you can buy with the dollars you have, not the number of dollars, that counts.

Farmers now own an estimated $188 billion worth of real estate and other property, against which they have mortgages totaling $11 billion. That, too, is largely a result of inflation rather than increased wealth.

Farm ownership is at a record high, and that is good. Two out of every three farmers are completely free of mortgage debt. The standard of living on farms, Mr. Benson emphasizes, is the highest in history.

Farm people own more appliances, radios, televisions, automobiles and other conveniences than ever before. The average, however, still is well below that of city people.

Washington may be guilty of being over anxious to paint too bright a farm picture. Fairness requires that emphasis be placed on complete accuracy rather than on “making the record look good.”

TREE SEEDLINGS AVAILABLE TO LANDOWNERS

Area Forester Collins M. Akin reports that the deadline previously set by the Mississippi Forestry Commission for the acceptance of applications for forest tree seedlings has passed and announces that some seedlings are still available. He said that the Commission will continue to accept orders until the remaining seedling supply is exhausted and urges those desiring seedlings to submit their application as soon as possible.

Akin says that seedling applications may be taken by the county representative of any of the agricultural agencies. These include Mississippi Forestry Commission Area Forester, ASC Office Managers, Soil Conservation Service Technicians, and members of the County agent's staff. He said that seedling prices remain the same with all species selling for $4.50 a thousand on available species, which are slash, loblolly, shortleaf, and longleaf pines and black locust.

Each landowner is eligible to receive one thousand (1,000) free seedlings. There is a charge of thirty-five cents (35 cents) per thousand on all seedlings, however, for transportation to the county in which the seedlings are to be planted.

PLANTING SHRUBS

November is the month to plant shrubs. As you plant those shrubs planned to go beneath a window, group three of them to form a triangle. This gives a more natural effect than three in a row. It also gives more room for the center shrub to grow and develop properly.

TRY THIS WITH EDAM CHEESE

Hollow out an Edam cheese, leaving a rim one-fourth inch thick. Crumble the removed part. Pour some cream over it and let it soften. Then whip until fluffy. If desired, stir in coarsely chopped pecans. Refill the cheese shell and let the guests help themselves. This is excellent atop warm apple, mince or pumpkin pie.

The month of November is the extra special time for the Home Demonstration clubs in Tishomingo County. The demonstration for the month will be "Holiday Baking." Miss Joyce Thomason, Specialist with Martha White Mills, taught the raining school and those who miss the meetings this month will miss a treat.

Thadious C. Ables Farm Pond

For years farm ponds have been constructed, or dug, on SCD Co-operators farms in Tishomingo County.

For years the Soil Conservation personnel has assisted in the establishing of these ponds.

What is it about Mr. Ables' farm pond that makes it news? It is not the pond itself but the uses Mr. Ables has planned for it that makes the construction of this pond news.

First of all Mr. Thadious C. Ables, who lives four miles west of Dennis, wanted a pond to furnish water for his livestock. Second he wants to stock it with fish. Third he wants to irrigate his garden. Fourth Mr. Ables will use it for swimming and fifth in case of fire he can pump water from this pond to spray on his dwelling or farm buildings.

There you have five uses for one farm pond. Let's list them again: 1. Water for livestock; 2. Fish; 3. Irrigate garden; 4. Swimming, and 5. Fire protection.

Mr. Ables is to be congratulated on this fine project.
